

The background of the entire poster is a photograph of the Fairmont Le Château Frontenac in Quebec City, a large, historic stone building with many windows and towers. In the foreground, there is a film strip graphic that runs across the bottom half of the image. The film strip contains several small photos: a curler in a blue and black uniform, a group of people, and a man in a grey shirt and white cap. The main title is centered over the top half of the image.
